

OIKOS setting new trends at Grand Designs Live 2009

New advancements in kitchen technology will be launched by Italian kitchen manufacturer Oikos at Grand Designs Live London 2009. The established company introduces Opera, the new multimedia kitchen concept, keeping the homeowner up-to-date with innovation and style.

Designed by Massimo Colombo, Opera is the latest high tech offering from Oikos incorporating a wealth of new features to complement increasingly popular open plan living trends.

Within the Opera range customers can choose from the latest in kitchen gadgetry including Oikos' brand new integrated media unit featuring double-sided TV and Computer with an integrated media system boasting full wireless capabilities.

As with all Oikos kitchens the Opera range uses only the highest quality hinges, mechanisms and components. New larder units have doors that slide into one plane elegantly hiding the appliances when not in use. Customers now have options of all the latest generation LED lighting, drawer inserts, different plinth finishes and stunning new wood veneers including Rosewood, Canaletto Walnut, Zebrano and Tobacco Oak.

Oikos is proud to manufacture their kitchens using only ecological panels and so confident of their build quality that they include a 10 year guarantee on all kitchen furniture.
